4-H Club News

Miss Jamersons's, fourth grade 4-H club met on Nov. 6, 1981 at Pamplin Elementary School. Sherry Hackney called the meeting to order. Then the recreation leaders, Patricia Richardson, Stephanie Walker, and Nicki Jackson led the songs and games. Sheila Hamlet led the pledge to the American flag. Drew Elder led the pledge to the 4-H flag.

The old business was the popcorn selling. It had come in. The new business was Public Speaking. Mr. Sweet told us to speak out loudly and clear. The project for this month; is the pine seedlings.

Company fined for violations

The U. S. Department of Transportation's Federal Highway Administration announced that Milton J. Elder and Kenneth W. Jones, a partnership doing business as Elder and Jones, Charlotte County Court House, Virginia, has paid a fine of $2,500 for violations of the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Regulations.

As a result of a 1980 accident which caused the death of an Appomattox County school girl and injuries to other school children, Safety Investigator Robert F. Mick of the Federal Highway Administration's Roanoke, Virginia, Office of Motor Carrier Safety conducted an investigation into the activities of Elder and Jones, which revealed violations of the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Regulations.

Specifically, the carrier failed to require it's drivers to prepare daily logs; failed to maintain driver qualification files, and permitted the operation of a defective vehicle which struck the rear of a stopped school bus.

The fine was imposed by The Honorable Glen E. Conrad, Federal Magistrate, in the United States District Court for the Western District of Virginia, in Roanoke, Virginia.

Three recognized nationally

Three Appomatox County 4-H'ers have been recognized for their outstanding 4-H projects. Laura Walton, Laurie Cowan and Terri Nash, all 17 and of Appomatox, have won expense-paid trips to the 60th National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Ill., Nov. 29-Dec. 3. They are among 34 Virginia 4-H'ers chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service for state awards arranged by National 4-H Council.

Walton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Walton, earned top state honors in the fashion revue program, sponsored by Simplicity Pattern Co. Inc. This seven year 4-H'er became interested in modeling after learning basic sewing skills. She advanced to modeling her award-winning outfits at the state level, and sharing her skills and knowledge with other 4-H'ers through workshops and shows at a restaurant and nursing home. Walton is a high school junior.

Cowan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce E. Cowan, excelled in the consumer education program, sponsored by Montgomery Ward & Co. Active in 4-H for seven years, she chose her project to help stem inflation for herself and her family. She learned to cut home energy costs through conservation, by sewing her own clothes and shopping wisely through sale and comparative pricing. The high school junior plans a career in business.

Nash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie E. Nash, took top state honors in the home management program, sponsored by Beatrice Foods Co. She chose this project upon joining 4-H seven years ago because her main interests related to the home and its care. She took responsibility for planning and preparing the family dinner and doing the housecleaning. With money earned from babysitting, she learned to shop for the most serviceable clothes. Nash is a high school junior.
